COVID-19’s impact on higher education is still rippling through our colleges and universities today. At Missouri S&T, the response to the pandemic involved intense coordination, detailed logistical planning, extensive communications, and most importantly, solid leadership. In this session, Chancellor Mohammad (Mo) Dehghani will discuss the principles of leadership that helped him lead the university through the pandemic and will share how these principles apply to other situations.